

Vendor Fair Exhibitor Information Kit

The 2006 MARLUG (the Mentor Graphics Mid-Atlantic Local User Group) conference, celebrating its 18th year, is scheduled October 12, 2006, at John's Hopkins University in Maryland.

This event will bring together local Mentor users and is considered the largest and most active conference of Mentor users outside of User2User. Last year the conference drew 100+ attendees, and we would like to get even more this year.

The 2006 MARLUG will include technical tracks for all the key technology and design areas including: PCB, IC, FPGA, Functional Verification, & Design Environment along with a usability lab. In addition, there will be three pre-conference workshops on Wednesday, October 11th focusing on DMS, High-Speed and FPGA. For more information please visit our web site at
