

DMS Workshop:

The DMS Workshop is a live demonstration of data management in the Expedition Enterprise flow. This demonstration will illustrate how component, library and design data is managed throughout the PCB design cycle. The end-to-end processes will be covered, starting with managing part requests, and the distributed librarian activity as a response to the part requests. As the pcb design evolves, management of parts lists, as well as the source and manufacturing files are key elements that will also be demonstrated. Finally, releasing a design to the enterprise applications is the end step in an optimized design process.
